Crops, Etc., in the Town of Newark.

MESSRS. EDITORS:—A few weeks since you solicited subscribers living in different parts of the county to inform the public through you of the amount of the average yield of grain in their respective neighborhoods.

As I have seen no response in behalf of the town of Newark, I venture to give my ideas of the quantity of grain raised in this town this year. This town is one of the poorest in the county, although we can show some as fine farms as any in the county. Yet, as a whole, in comparison with the other towns in Rock county, Newark is a poor town. In further illustration of this fact, it may not be out of place to mention that there are no professional doctors, preachers or lawyers in the town; no post office, no rail road, no grog shops, or in fact, any stores or villages. Our people are a purely agricultural people, and have thus far found themselves able to maintain their "balance of power," while importing their law, theology, physic, mail matter and whiskey from the enterprising cities of Beloit and Janesville, which lie just far enough off to make them useful to us.

Our wheat is threshing out 23 bushels to the acre, on an average. Our corn is good, and so is everything else we planted.

There are nine school districts in the town, which are nearly equal in grain raising capacity. Now, by a careful estimate of the district in which I live, I conclude that it has raised 14,000 bushels of wheat this year. Multiply this amount by 9 and you have 126,000 bushels of wheat raised in the town this year.

We feel that we have been liberally dealt with by that Power on which we must rely,

after human nature has done all it can;—

and in commemoration of the prolific season, the Sabbath school children, with the people of the surrounding country, held a picnic last Saturday, which went off satisfactorily to all concerned. We had good music, no gubernatorial speaking, but some sensible talk to the people from Elders Pool and Chamberlain.

In conclusion, I trust God will crown the full year by permitting the people of the United States to inaugurate a new national policy through the election of Abraham

Lincoln to the presidency.

Yours,

STATE FAIR—ANNUAL ADDRESS.—Gen.

James W. Nye, of New York, has consent-

Duty and Responsibility of the Northwest.

Speech of Hon. W. H. Seward of New York.

DELIVERED AT MADISON, SEPT. 12TH, 1860.

Gov. Seward was introduced by Gov.

Randall. Mr. Seward said:

Fellow Citizens:—It is a bright September sun that is shining down upon us—such a sun as nature, pleased with the nature of her own beneficence seems to delight in sending forth to grace the close of a season which has been crowned with abundance and luxuriance, unknown even to her own profuseness. It is such a sun as nature, pleased with seeing the growth of a noble capital in a great state, may be supposed to send out to illuminate and to make more effulgent the magnificent beauties of the place on which we are assembled. It is such a September sun as we might almost suppose nature, sympathizing with the efforts of good men, to send forth, to secure to secure their own freedom, to perpetuate that freedom for the enjoyment of their posterity, and to extend its blessings throughout the whole world, and for all generations, may have sent forth in token of sympathy with such a noble race. [Applause.] But, fellow citizens, bright and cheerful as this hour is, my heart is oppressed and I am unable at once to lift myself above the sadness of recent scenes and painful recollections. I obeyed the command of the republican people of Wisconsin to appear before them on this, the 12th day of September, and as I approached the beautiful seaport, if dominion, reaching into every part of the habitable globe, which she now exercises.

She is likely to do it, too, and may do it, by reducing, every successive year, the power of her aristocracy, and introducing more and more, the popular element of democra-cism into the administration of her government.

In many respects, the government of England, though more aristocratic, is still less monarchical than our own. The British empire exists to-day only by recognizing and gradually adopting the great truth that if the British empire is to stand, it is the British people who are to maintain that empire and enjoy and exercise it. France, the other great European power, which seems to stand firmer now than ever, and to be renewing her career of prosperity and glory—France, under the form of a despotism, has adopted the principle of universal suffrage, and the empire of France today, is a democracy. The Austrian empire is falling. And why? Because democra-cism is rising in Germany to demand the liberation of the people of its various nations, and the exercise of universal suffrage.—

And Italy, to-day, all along the coast of the Mediterranean, is rising up to the dignity of renewed national life, by adopting the principle of universal suffrage. The limitation of power by the action of the whole

A Washington despatch to the Times says—official information received confirms the defeat of Miramon in Mexico. The battle was fought at Zela, not Lagos, as reported. It lasted only one day, and ended in five days. Generals Ruelas and Honasdas were killed and a number of Miramon's party were taken prisoners.

THE above are Part of the list of companies and prompt in paying claims. They invite investigation into their condition and which business entities upon their merits. In point of advantage and reliability and honorable dealing, they have few equals, and no superior. They are founded upon the very best securities in the world—first class bonds and mortgages upon property in New York and Brooklyn—securities that have stood the test of time, and are as good as gold and as every way more reliable and permanent than railroad, bank, and other stocks, which are subject to the fluctuations of the market, and liable to loss of value, as the experience of the past teaches, to become almost, if not entirely, valueless. And while there are companies existing in the field of competition, well calculated to succeed in the future, and without a cash surplus on hand sufficient to reimburse their outstanding risks, the above named companies always to be kept in mind and their claims upon the amount, and in most instances, for interest, needed for the recovery of their claims. With such a foundation, and with such a condition, they claim the right to look with confidence to the public for liberal patronage.

Policy issued without delay, and claims paid for a series of years, and thus, as it is done by the Mutual Companies, and a certain gain instead of an uncertainty. All losses promptly adjusted and paid.

SINGULAR REVELATIONS.

THE AIMS AND EXPECTATIONS OF DOUGLAS AS EXPLAINED BY ONE OF HIS FRIENDS.

PHILADELPHIA, Sept. 10, 1860.

I happened to fall in conversation recently with a very warm personal and political friend of Mr. Douglas—a gentleman of great political experience and sagacity, who exerts not a little influence in his sphere—upon parties and upon the prospects of the different presidential candidates. The gentleman was frank and communicative, and in the course of an hour's conversation, gave me much information relative to the canvass, and also enlightened me as to Mr. Douglas' real objects and expectations. Without attempting to give his precise language, I will condense into the smallest possible compass the substance of his remarks. They will interest you, and I believe the sequel will prove them to be true to the letter. Here is what he said:

Douglas knows that his election is an impossibility—that there is no more chance than he has that the contest lies between Breckinridge and Lincoln, and of the two he much prefers the election of the latter. If by any possibility Breckinridge or Lane should be elected, Douglas knows that it would be all up with him in 1864—that with the federal appointments and the disbursement of one hundred and twenty millions of dollars annually, the democratic party would become an unit in support of the administration, while himself and the very few adherents he would have left, would be ostracized and left without influence or hope for the future. Hence Douglas is violently opposed to a fusion with the Breckinridge democracy. He is opposed to it and presented it here in Pennsylvania; he is opposed to it in New York, and although a sub-committee have agreed to the terms of fusion by the Breckinridges, yet it is understood here that their action will be repudiated by the central committee.

Douglas is working for 1861. The division in the democratic party is past healing. He knows it and no longer seeks that object. He hopes to control the democratic organization in the free states, and by joining hands with the Know Nothings, the slave states, to build up a party of his own for the contest four years hence. This is his aim. No man can doubt it who has closely observed his course and weighed well his words, since the breaking up of the party at Charleston. Hence the election of either Breckinridge or Lane will defeat the object he has in view. He is therefore opposed to the election of either. He will coalesce with the men to the extent of securing their co-operation in 1861, but not to the extent of electing them, if such a thing were among the possibilities. He will not coalesce with the Breckinridges, because that would make a party for Breckinridge instead of a party for Douglas.

I repeat, Douglas desires the election of Lincoln. He would not, if he could, do anything to secure Lincoln's defeat; and he could not, if he would. He desires his election by the people, because he knows, if the election should go into congress, that either Breckinridge or Lane will be the result. He will, therefore, work for the election of Lincoln, if such a thing were among the possibilities. He will not coalesce with the Breckinridges, because that would make a party for Breckinridge instead of a party for Douglas.

Such is the Douglas programme, as explained to me by one of his adherents in this state, who is himself a warm supporter of Lincoln in furtherance of it. It is a species look, and explains many points in the conduct of Douglas that seem inexplicable on any other hypothesis. What do you think of it? And what about the result in Illinois? We here feel very certain that both Illinois and Indiana are beyond the reach of Douglas, and that they are as sure for Lincoln as New York and Pennsylvania.

PENNSYLVANIA.—It is roundly asserted by the New York Courier and Enquirer that the pro-slavery men of that city have raised one HUNDRED THOUSAND DOLLARS to be expended in Pennsylvania, for the purpose of carrying that state against Lincoln. Remembering, as we do, the declarations made before the Covode committee, in relation to the corruption of 1856, and the care of the Buchanan administration in rewarding all those who advanced money for use in Pennsylvania that year, we are not at liberty to doubt the literal correctness of the Courier's assertion. But we should be fools to believe that Pennsylvania, once wronged and betrayed by the men in whom she trusted, can again be induced to sacrifice her interests that they may carry off the spoils of victory. A burnt child dreads the fire, and the old Key Stone State remembers the painful lesson that Mr. Buchanan has taught her. Ten times the amount of the corruption fund gathered from the pockets of the cottonocracy of New York would not be sufficient to buy her support for any one of the candidates of the pro-slavery party.—Chicago Tribune.

WHY CORWIN WON'T SPEAK TO LOUISIANS.—Tom Corwin made a republican speech at Jeffersonville recently. In the course of it, his remarks elicited the following question from Col. W., a Louisville editor, and the speaker:

Corwin—"I see there are some Louisianians here. I would like to talk to the people of that state."

Col. W.—"Come over and talk; be glad to see you."

Corwin—"My friend, I would like to talk to them, but they are not here."

The value of the cotton crop of the slave states this year will be $200,000,000, and the corn crop of the free states $250,000,000.

Crops, Etc., in the Town of Newark.

hoods.

of the town of Newark, I venture to give my ideas of the quantity of grain raised in this

of this fact, I may not be out of place to

whiskey from the enterprising cities of Beloit and Janesville, which lie just far enough off to make them useful to us.

the acre, on an average. Our corn is good,

and so is everything else we planted.

this year. Multiply this amount by 9 and

in the town this year.

with by that Power on which we must rely,

and Chamberlain.

Lincoln to the presidency.

Yours,

JOHN L. V. THOMAS.

Duty and Responsibility of the Northwest.

Speech of Hon. W. H. Seward of New York.

Gov. Seward was introduced by Gov. Randall.

Gov. Seward said:

profusions. It is such a sun as nature, pleased with seeing the growth of a noble

capital in a great state, may be supposed to

forts of good men, lovers of liberty, anxious

terity, and to extend its blessings through-

with a noble race. [Applause.] But, fellow citizens, bright and cheerful as this

you on this, the 12th day of September, and as I approached the beautiful seaport, if I may so call it, a city that crowns the shores of Lake Michigan, and where gen-erance to this magnificent state, I had anticipated, because I had become habituated to a welcome that should be distinguished by the light of a thousand torches, and by the voices of music and of cannon. But the angel of death passed just before me on the way, and instead of footstep lights with the greeting of thousands of welcome citizens, I found a thick darkness, increased, as only nature's darkness can be, by the weeping and wailing of mothers for the loss of children, and refusing to be comforted.

I have been quite unable to rise from that sudden shock; to forget that instead of the voice of a kind and merry and genial welcome, I heard only mourning and lamentation in the streets.

To you, perhaps, the scene seems somewhat foreign, because it occurred in your beautiful seaport, but it was not merely a municipal calamity. It is a calamity and disaster that befalls the state, and strikes home dismay and horror to the bosoms of all its people, for these were citizens of the state who have perished, and those who survive are the mourners; the desolate widows and orphans who are bereaved.

Let me, before I proceed, take the liberty to bring this subject home to the state authorities of Wisconsin, and to ask and to implore that nothing may be left undone to rescue a single sufferer from that dreadful calamity, and to bring to the comforts of social life, and of a sound, good, religious, and public education, the orphans who are left to wander on the streets by the lake

Fellow citizens, it is a political law—and when I say political law, I mean a higher law—[cries of "good,"] a law of providence, that empire has for the last three thousand years, so long as we have records of civilization, and its way constantly westward, and that it must continue to move on west-

dominion, reaching into every part of the

habitable globe, which she now exercises.

cy into the administration of her government.

glory—France, under the principle of democracy, has adopted the principle of univer-suffrage, and the empire of France to-

cy is rising in Germany to demand the liberation of the people of its various nations,

principle of universal suffrage and the limitation of power by the action of the whole people.

Now, if in the old world, where government and empire are entrenched and established so long in hereditary aristocracy, no empire can stand except as it yields to the democratic principle, look around over the United States of America, and say how long you can hold these states in a federal union, or maintain one common authority or empire here except on the principle of Democracy? Therefore, is it that, I say, that you of the north-west are, above all things, first, last, and all the time, to recognize the great element of the republic, the system and the principles of democracy.

But, fellow citizens, it is easy to talk about democracy. I have heard men prate of it by the hour, and admire it, and shout for it, and express their reverence for it;— and yet I have seen that they never com-prehended the simplest element of democracy. What is it? It is the opposite of monarchy, or of aristocracy. Aristocracy is maintained everywhere, in all lands, by one or two systems, or by both combined.

An aristocracy is the government in which the few privileged own the laborers and the laborer works on compulsion, and under the constraint of force; and in either case he takes that which may remain after the wants of the owners of the land or labor both are satisfied. The laborer must rest content with the privilege of being propertied in his personal rights; and the powers of the government are exercised by the owners of labor and of land.

Here, then, you see I have brought you to the consideration of the great problem of society in this republic or empire. It is this: Is there any danger that in the United States the citizen will not be the owner of the land which he cultivates? And is any part of the United States where there is a place in which the democratic element has not yet had its introduction, or been permitted to work its way effectually.

So, on the other hand, as here where you are, so many men are obliged to cultivate
